The Grant Family

The plans are not altogether vague, although far from settled, in regard to the future of the family. They will be left in comparatively good circumstances so that they can afford to release the mortgage on their house in Sixty-sixth street and make it their home, but if they live in New York City, which is doubtful, there is now no expectation of their occupying that house. It could never be as it was to them, endearing as would be its associations on the General's account. They were as glad to get away from it as he was. The scenes of comfort and security departed with the removal of their treasures in May to the custody of the Government. It was not the loss of their things that pained them, but the means by which they went. The General always intended to give to the Government these things—pictures, bronzes and other rare and beautiful gifts—that had been presented to him, but he was denied that satisfaction; and when he wrote to Washington signifying his purpose, the reply came back that the gift had already been promised by Vanderbilt, who claimed to own them. The General was too much dispirited to contest the claim. He thought he had already assigned to Vanderbilt enough property to make good that unfortunate loan of $150,000, but he was in no position to resist Vanderbilt's opinion to the contrary, and so his cherished plan of giving to the Government his treasures was dispelled, and Vanderbilt became the actual donor. It was a hard struggle for the General and his family to part with them under such circumstances, and when they were gone the bare walls and vacant places at his house in Sixty-sixth street were constant reminders to all the family of their misfortunes.

U. S. Grant will remain on his New Jersey farm, having reconciled himself to that prospect. Jesse Grant has an opening in his business as an engineer in the project for a railway in the valley of the Euphrates. Mrs. Sartoris will naturally return to England, where her children are and where her husband's family want them to be educated. Her desire, however, is to bring her children here and live with her mother, and she case the household would consist, probably, of Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Sartoris and Col. Grant and his family.

The railroad agents seem to be cutting rates to quite an extent. Reductions of from $15 to $20 are being made on third-class tickets from San Francisco to New York, and it is thought that the war will be kept up for some time to come. When railroads are at war the public reap the benefit. The Pennsylvania Central is reported to be ready to take a hand in the Trunk Line cuts and make a $1 rate between New York and Chicago. In that case it would be cheaper to ride between those two great cities than to stay at home.

General Joseph E. Johnston, on being questioned concerning his estimates of General Grant, said: "His appointment as General-in-Chief brought the civil war to a close sooner than it otherwise could have been accomplished. After he assumed full command of the Federal forces he organized two armies, against which we were unable to contend with any degree of success."

Among the many others who sent dispatches to the Grant family were Colonel Thomas P. Ochiltree, Hon. William M. Everts, the Japanese Minister at Washington; Potter Palmer, of Chicago; James Tyner, of Washington; George W. Childs, of Philadelphia; Mayor Grace, of New York; ex-Premier Gladstone and Secretary Endicott.

Goldsmith Maid, at the height of her glory, for a joke, was taken from her quarters through a back street, let to a public place and put up at auction, the spectators bidding in good faith until the price was run up to $34, when some one connected with the stable bid $35, the hammer fell and she was led away.

The Old Soldier's Treasures.

The publishers estimate the General's share of the proceeds of his book at $75,000. The General assigned all his right to this money to Mrs. Grant, in whose name the contract stands. No qualifications are attached to the gift, and she may use the money as best suits herself. As she knows what the General has done, and what he would have continued to do, she will doubtless follow out his plan of benefaction, so that none of the family or relatives will want because of the losses sustained in following his example. It is her present intention to retire somewhere to a quiet and modest home, and she will try to sell, with the least possible delay, the house in Sixty-sixth street and the Long Branch cottage. Just where she will permanently live, or how, will be left to the future. Col. Grant will own the General's library, private records and other paper, many of which are of great value. As he has developed considerable literary talent while assisting the General on his book, he has been advised to avail himself of the opportunity offered by these documentary possessions. Among them are papers from which much of interest can be written bearing on the General's experiences from 1865 to 1868, as well as his Presidency and since. When Baden's "Military Life of Grant" was published, the General sent handsomely-bound copies to the rulers of foreign countries, from whom he had received courtesies when abroad, and among the papers left by the General are autograph acknowledgments of the receipt of the book. There is enough other interesting complimentary letters to make a volume in themselves.

The White House in Mourning.

The White House has been handsomely draped, the emblem of mourning being those on the building at the time of the death of President Garfield. They are over and around the windows and doors facing north, and the great pillars of the portico at the north entrance are also covered with black.

The disposition of the cottage in which General Grant died rests with J. W. Drexel, and the Associated Press is authorized to announce that the cottage will never again be occupied by any family or person. Mr. Drexel will, in due time, present it to the State or National Government. The house will be presented intact.

The following is among the telegrams received by the Grant family:

Mrs. U. S. Grant:—Please accept my profoundest sympathy in your great bereavement. The entire nation mourns the loss of its first soldier and first citizen.

G. W. Childs to Choose a Burial Place.

A Philadelphia dispatch says:

Regarding the funeral arrangements and final burial-place of General Grant, it is learned that George W. Childs will have sole charge of all matters connected therewith, and he will probably be called upon to select a spot for the last resting place of the dead hero. Childs intended to leave for Mount McGregor to-day, but fearing he could not reach there in time he has delayed starting until further advised by the family as to their movements. He is in constant telegraphic communication with Colonel Fred Grant, who, by reason of Childs' long and close friendship with the family, has asked for advice on several matters connected with the funeral preparations, and has left to Childs' judgment the arrangement of all principal points. The Mayor having called a special meeting of the Council, there will be introduced, and undoubtedly passed, a resolution asking that the body be allowed to lie in state in Independence Hall for one day.

Regular Masonic meeting to-night.
Reno had a nice thunder shower yesterday afternoon.

J. H. Kinkad and family returned yesterday from their camping-out trip.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Kate Holland took place yesterday, and was largely attended.

Calamity Jane has returned to the Comstock from down in Ormsby county, where she has been rusticated the last few weeks.

Jake Linn, the new Mayor of Verdi, came down from his campoddy last evening to see how everything was moving along in Reno.

Mrs. Alt's Saturday night soirees are becoming more popular every week. Go to Armory Hall to-night and see for yourself. It will only cost you 50 cents.

Rev. G. M. Spencer, the Congregational minister, has returned from his California visit. The usual services will be held at the church to-morrow morning.

Among the gossip of the day is a story that on his recent visit to Washington, Senator Blair, of New Hampshire, called at the White House and made himself very agreeable to Mr. Cleveland, expressing himself as very much pleased with the general course that the President is pursuing and indicating a purpose to manifest a friendly disposition to the Administration when then Senate meets next Winter.

George William Curtis has retired from the editorship of Harper's Weekly, a position which he held for many years. Mr. Curtis is sixty-one years old, and unremitting work has told up on his strength. His long service has been rewarded by a pension from the Harpers. The new editor of the Weekly is Montgomery Schuyler, of the New York World. Mr. Curtis will continue his connection with Harper's Monthly, of which his "Easy Chair" is so charming a feature.

The Carson Index says: "The Morgan mine, so-called, near Washoe City, is being rapidly developed into one of the most promising little properties in the Western part of Nevada. It is under the management of Hon. Stevenson, of Gold Hill, and the concentrating works are rapidly approaching completion under the efficient supervision of Mr. Beebe, the well-known millwright and operative millman. The mill will be in motion about August 1st, and there is plenty of ore to keep it running for an indefinite period. The prospect is a very handsome one. Connection has just been effected between the new tunnel and the old shaft. The ventilation is splendid and the ore body a very large and fine one."

What Will Reno Do?

A number of citizens met at Nasby's store last night to determine what Reno should do to honor the memory of Gen. Grant. General Webster was selected Chairman, and L. D. Folsom, Secretary. General Webster thought appropriate ceremonies should be held in Reno on the day of Gen. Grant's funeral, as the deceased soldier and citizen belonged to the nation. Hon. Jerry Schooling moved that a committee of three be appointed to confer with a like number from Mitchell Post, G. A. B., of Reno, to agree upon the mode and manner of observing the day. Jerry Schooling, H. P. Kraus and Capt. C. A. Bragg, were selected as such Committee. Mr. Schooling moved that a Committee of two be appointed as a Finance Committee, and C. O. Powning and A. C. Bragg were selected. On motion the meeting adjourned until Monday evening at 7:30 at the Justice Rooms, to hear the report of the Conference Committee.

Mitchell Post met and appointed Comrades A. A. Evans and T. F. Laycock as members of the Committee of Conference on the part of the Post.

The committee will probably have a meeting at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

A REMARKABLE SPRING.

It Rises and Falls With the Tide and Abounds With Sea Shells.

The Eureka Sentinel tells this: "A friend tells us of a curious warm spring in Newark Valley, White Pine county. It pours out of the mountain and affords about 50 inches of water. The water is almost tepid when it first reaches the surface. Along with the rushing torrent of water there is a continuous flow of small sea shells of all hues and descriptions. The flow of water is never affected by the seasons the same as other springs in all parts of Nevada are known to be. Whether the seasons be wet or dry there is no change in this particular spring. It is unchangeable Winter or Summer. There is also another curious feature about it. It rises and falls as regularly as the ocean tide. These variations average about four inches, and are as regular as the sun itself. Can it be that there is a deep subterranean connection between this spring and the Pacific Ocean? It certainly behaves that way, and those who have watched it for years have come to the conclusion that there is."

Nevada's Exhibit.

Colonel C. O. Thomas, Nevada's Commissioner to the Exposition at New Orleans, received a telegram Thursday morning from T. H. Goodman, General Passenger Agent of the O. P. R. R., informing him that the exhibit from this State was shipped from San Francisco Wednesday night and would arrive in Reno yesterday. The Colonel says that as soon as the exhibit arrives, he will return to the State Cabinet, the Pioneers', and private parties the specimens contributed by them according to contract. The specimens that were contributed from various portions of the State without any contract having been made for their return he will distribute as follows: To the Smithsonian Institute at Washington, 1,200 pounds, together with the cases containing large photographs of the exhibit. He will also present some fine specimens to the State cabinet at Carson, to the Pioneers of Virginia City, and to the State University. The State Fair Directors have asked that the exhibit be allowed to remain in Reno until after the State Fair, and exhibited in the Pavilion during Fair week, after which it can be divided up and distributed as proposed. The Journal hopes Col. Thomas will grant the request.

The Baldwin Theater Co.

The San Francisco Bulletin says of the "Shadows of a Great City" as played by the Baldwin Theater Co. The play is a strong one and has the superior merit of concise acting, a reasonable amount of characters, in place of a score of do-nothings, as in most melodramas, and directness in plot and climax: it is well written and deals with home characters, and has the most desirable quality of captivating the upper tiers as well as interesting the dress circle.

Railroad Excursion Rates.

The question of excursion rates for the members of the Grand Army of the Republic, who will hold their encampment in San Francisco in 1886, has been taken up by the Transcontinental Association. The round trip rate from the various places in the East has not yet been fixed. It is thought that it will be announced in a short time.

The Wild Deer Mine.

J. McGrath, assayer, says the Wild Deer mine at Willow Creek is looking splendidly, and is producing sufficient ore to keep the Silver Wave mill running steadily. They find streaks of ore in the vein which assay as high as $1,000 in gold and $4,000 in silver to the ton.

The Virginia Chronicle says:

The people of Storey county will be chiefly indebted to Mr. Werrin should the Geiger grade toll-road lease be broken and the tariff raised to the old exorbitant rates. He is said to be willing to submit to the dictation of the Commissioners of Washoe county and aid in coercing the present lessees into abandoning their lease. The scheme then is to give it to its former lessees, to whom Washoe county officials, and Mr. Werrin also seem to be remarkably partial.

An assessment of 50 cents per share has been levied by the Chollar Mining Company.

Military Honors.

Adjutant General Drum, by command of Lieutenant General Sheridan, has issued the following order:

"In compliance with instructions of the President, on the day of the funeral, at each military post, troops and cadets will be paraded and the order read to them, after which all labors for the day will cease. The national flag will be displayed at half-mast. At dawn of day thirteen guns will be fired, and afterward, at intervals of thirty minutes, between the rising and setting of the sun, a single gun, and at the close of the day a national salute of thirty-eight guns. Officers of the army will wear crapes on the left arm and on their swords, and colors will be put in mourning for the period of six months. The date and hour of the funeral will be communicated to Department Commanders by telegraph, and by them to their subordinate commanders."

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. feb. 21-awf-1vr
